

Transform Your Home with Colour

By Melissa Browne

This Christmas, step away from tradition and embrace the warmth and vibrancy of an island-inspired colour palette. Drawing inspiration from the Caribbean's lush landscapes and sparkling seas, this season's trending hues blend bold tropical tones with timeless holiday accents. From turquoise paired with gold for a chic coastal look to rich greens reflecting nature's bounty, these paint tips will help you refresh your home for the holidays and beyond.

Dare to Be Different

Tropical Colours for a Festive Flair

Be unconventional this Christmas by adding some tropical colours to your space. A good example is using a Caribbean-inspired turquoise colour, maybe in your living or dining room and pairing it with gold decorations. These two colours complement each other, with turquoise being tropical while gold is still in keeping with traditional Christmas decor.

Go Green

Nature-Inspired Holiday Hues

You can bring nature inside by using various hues of green. A rich green on the walls with different shades of greens from Christmas trees, foliage and other decorations for a tropical yet monochromatic look.

Make It Pop

Bold Focal Points with Island Colours

Use paint to create a bright focal point. This can be an accent wall, a centrepiece for your dining space, or a hanging light fixture. The focal point can add a punch of bold island-like colour to any space.
